Open and hand in your evidence template

Digital Technologies · School and personal computers

You will

- open your own copy of a template from Google Classroom
- work in it, then turn it in
- unsubmit it if you need to change something

You need

- your school Google account
- an assignment with a template from your kaiako

Before you start

- Classroom makes a copy of the template for each ākonga, with your name at the start.
- Your kaiako can already see your copy, so there's nothing to share.

 Click here  Look here

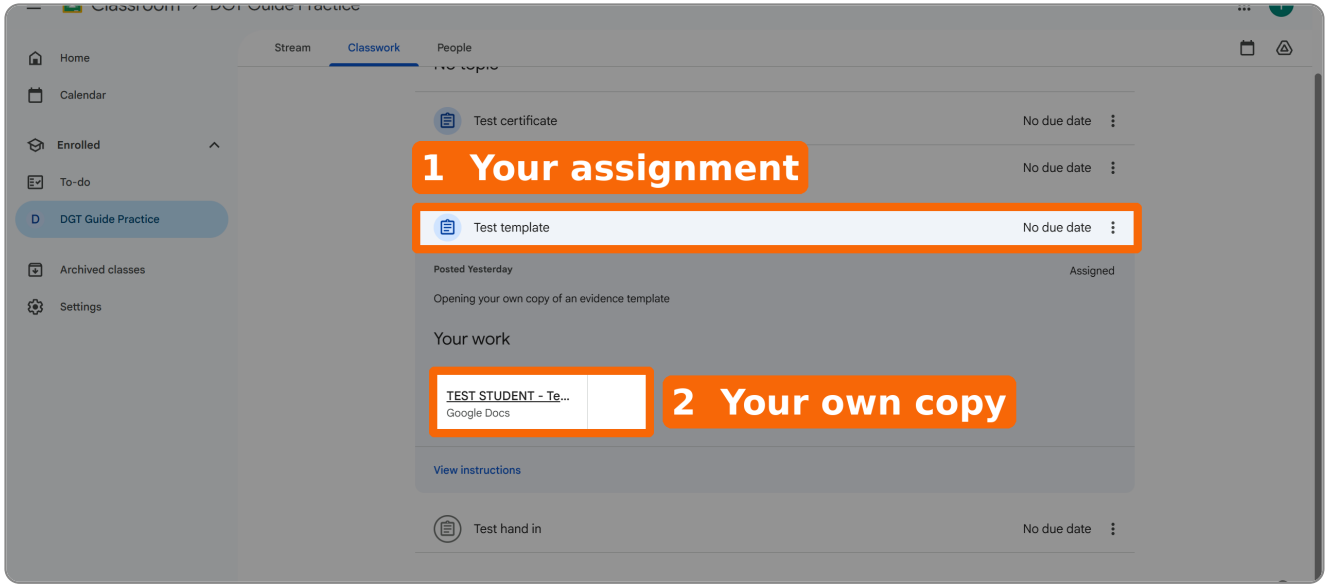

1

Classroom › your class › Classwork

Click your assignment.

Under Your work, click the doc with your name at the start.

Your copy opens in a new tab.

2

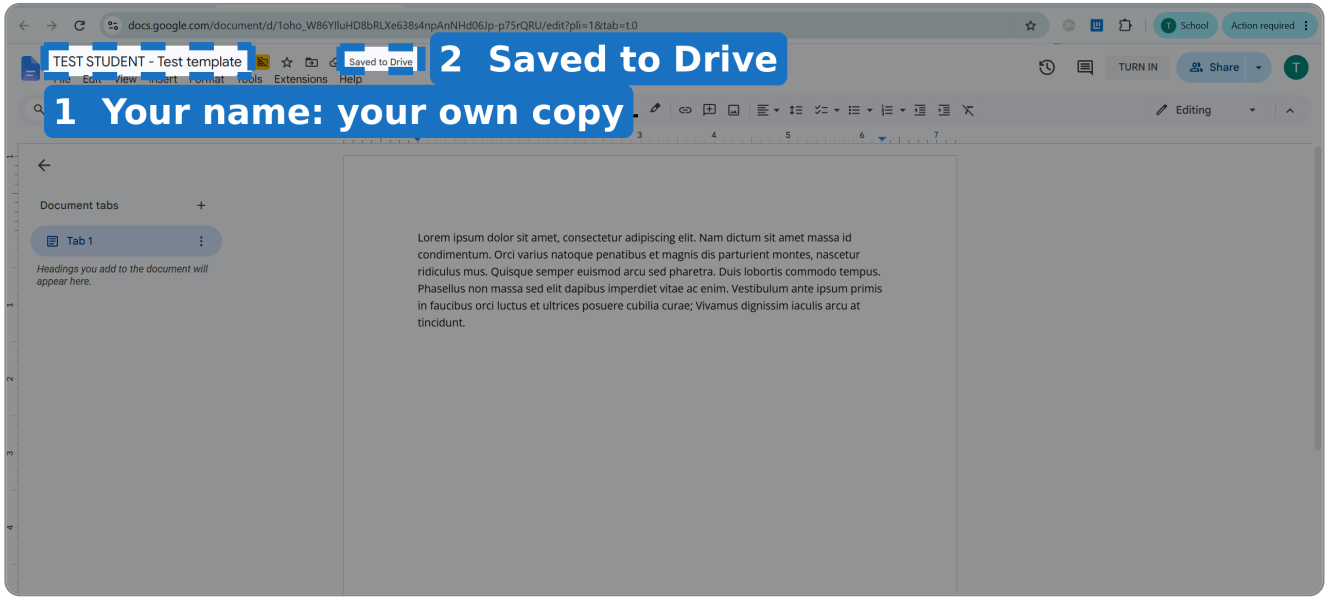

Google Docs › your copy

Check your name is at the start of the title.

Type your work into the boxes.

Google Docs saves as you type. Open this same copy from Classroom every lesson.

> Check: your name in the title, and Saved to Drive beside it.

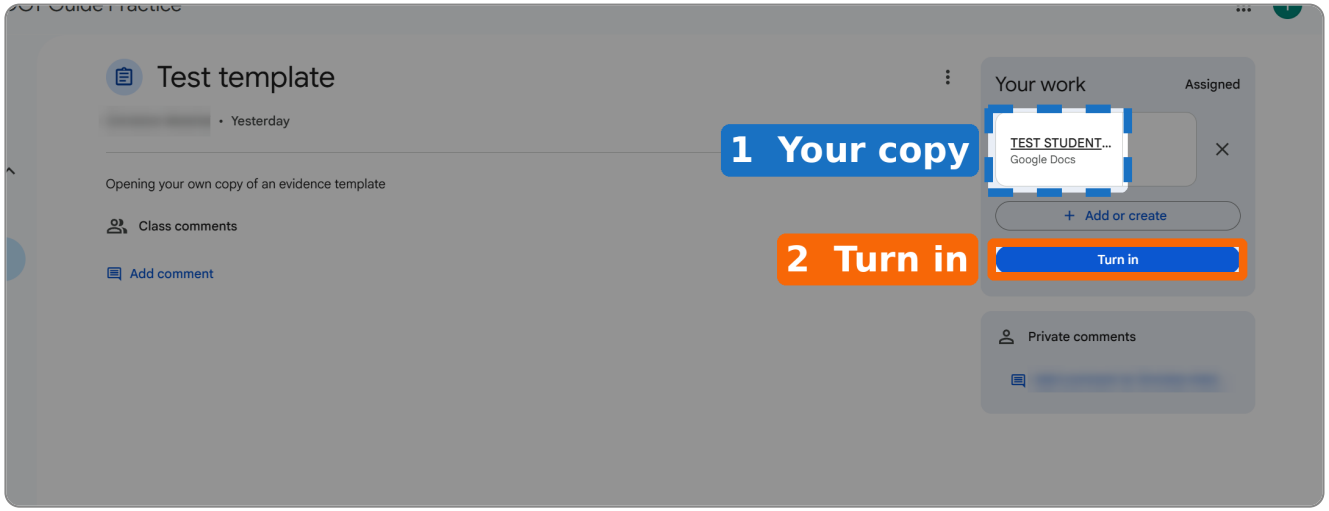

3

Classroom › your assignment

When you're finished, go back to the Classroom tab.

Click Turn in.

Docs has a TURN IN button at the top too. It does the same thing.

4

Classroom › Turn in your work?

Click Turn in.

5

Classroom › your assignment

Check Your work says Turned in.

Once you turn in, your copy becomes read-only until you unsubmit.

> Check: Turned in, at the top of Your work.

6

Classroom › Unsubmit?

Need to change something? Click Unsubmit, then Unsubmit in this box.

Make your changes in the same copy, then turn it in again.

One copy, all the way through

Work in the copy Classroom made for you every lesson. A copy you make yourself isn't attached to the assignment.

Adding more files

Some assignments also ask for a zip or a picture. Attach it before you turn in (see the guide Hand in on Google Classroom).

Checkpoint

- [ ] I can open my own copy of a template from Classroom.
- [ ] I can turn it in, and unsubmit it to make changes.